INTRODUCTION

1.1 BACKGROUND

Over the last decade, Blockchain technology has emerged, disrupting the real estate, entertainment, education, and financial services industries. To grasp the potential of Blockchain, think about how foreign and overwhelming the Internet felt in when it first appeared a few decades ago. Now think about where we are today. Today, the XR world has begun embracing the possibilities offered by Blockchain technology as an emerging industry that deals with many challenges in the supply chain, payment systems, and transaction tracking. Thus, Blockchain technology is poised to revolutionize innovative start-ups in handling their operations and commercializing their products to consumers. XR technologies are at the forefront of the high-tech revolution, reshaping how businesses position their offerings to improve their consumer experience. This technology decades ago was pure science fiction but is now made into reality. Virtual reality (VR) is widely used in all spheres of life, from entertainment and education to real estate and travel industries. This growth is reflected in the market value as well - in 2019, the global market value of VR was less than $15 billion. With Covid-19 accelerating innovative technology, by 2023, it is anticipated to surpass $70 billion. With XR and Blockchain currently being among the most popular topics globally, it is proper to explore how these two forces work together. Furthermore, in examining the current state of the XR industry, it is clear that leveraging Blockchain and cloud computing technologies will resolve the imminent challenges of charity donations using NFTs collections and authenticity.

EXECUTIVE SUMMARY

Welcome to Survivor Bunnies, a project that is dedicated to people fighting cancer. Survivor Bunnies NFT Collection consists of 9,000 Survivor Bunnies with different traits. They represent our ambition to help cancer fighters and our community. Join us to fight alongside them

Survivor Bunnies aims to create , a collection of NFTs virtual charity donations with tokens through Internet. In Survivor Bunnies, users can interact with computer-generated imagery (CGI) and other users. We believe extended reality (XR), a mix of virtual reality, augmented reality, and mixed reality is at the forefront of enhancing human livelihood, wildlife, and environment experiences whilst leveraging the power of blockchain, artificial intelligence and cloud computing technologies. This supports the innovation of Web 3.0. Survivor Bunnies proposes to build the first extended reality NFTs focusing on themes of the basic human instincts, such as curiosity, vision, community, idealism, vitality, generosity, and imagination. In building this, we are starting with the infrastructure of the metaverse, which is virtual charity donation, a non- fungible token .

Market Conditions: We will be creating lot of NFTs and selling them too and charity collected from the earnings of those NFTs would be partially donated back for the good. Survivor Bunnies will be very active on the NFT markets like OpenSea and other places selling VARIETIES of different NFTS that would be helpful for probably several useful purposes including metaverses that are being built maybe able to tap into leveraging

Problem Assessment: MOST Crypto Commoners find it cumbersome to use tokens for earning purposes .The key challenges are the lack of intuitive and rich user experience for users, substandard in-built metaverse developer applications for content developers. NFTs will be submitted built starting from novice to most unique collections

WHY Survivor Bunnies ?

Survivor Bunnies mission is to leverage community action and blockchain technologies to grow a global movement that defies the status quo and makes profitability intrinsically linked to positive social impact. ABOUT ME

After losing my mom to cancer when she was 40, losing my grandmother and aunt to cervical cancer, and fighting through my recovering wife's cancer together, I felt the urge to do something, something to help the others who are going through all this. I created this collection to help people fighting cancer and dedicated it to my two daughters and four granddaughters, along with everyone going through this process.
